G 11

One day I was seting on my bed and I fell asleep. Then I was falling from the sky but before I hit I landed on a dragons back. It took me to a castle. A lot of little migt's started to put armer on me and then they gave me a golden sord and crown and they had dimons on them. They thought I was there King I tdd them "I'm not your King," but they wouldn't leave me alone. They made me fight a lion which allmost killed me but I killed it. I said "wy whont you leave me allone?" Then they Said "your the chosen one," "Finally," I killed them so I could go home I whocke up and went and layed on the floor then here we go agine.

Score Point: 3

This response reflects a limited degree of proficiency in narrative writing skills. The writer tells a story about an imaginary trip to a castle and organizes the response through time. Some dialogue is employed to illustrate key ideas (I'm not your king, why won't you leave me alone). However, the lack of development and an accumulation of spelling errors prevent the response from earning a higher score.
